

Portreath C.P School

Our SEN information report

Date: January 2018

Statement about the inclusive and accessible nature of the school

We are a small village school and we want everyone in our school community to feel welcome and valued within our setting. All members of staff and Governors understand the importance of not just accepting difference but of genuinely valuing it, and we understand the positive impact that all pupils can have on our setting.

Admission decisions of all pupils into the school are made by the local authority.

Although a large section of our school is very old and, therefore, much thought has to be given to adaptations and class organisation, we have three new classrooms which are all large and spacious, as are our corridors and hall. The building is wheelchair accessible and, although not currently installed, we have a room, and a plan, should we need accessible toileting and showering facilities.

At Portreath we strive for all of our pupils to reach their full potential in every aspect of their development and learning. We encourage working towards independence and understanding being a successful learner from Reception, but are always aware and willing to provide extra support when needed. Our school fosters teaching and learning creatively ensuring appropriate levels of challenge for each pupil using a variety of learning preferences.

All pupils are encouraged to take part in school activities, regardless of whether they are in curriculum time or not. The school works hard with parents to make arrangements that allow pupils to experience trips, adapting aspects so that all pupils get similar experiences. There is a marked parking space to make access to the grounds easier through the side gate of the car park.

12. Pupil progress

How you assess and review pupils' progress towards outcomes, including how you work with parents and young people

All pupils are regularly assessed in a range of ways. These include: daily formative assessment against the intended objectives of the lesson; after lesson marking of independently completed work; observations of pupils tackling tasks; weekly tests for spelling; mental maths activities and more formal assessments throughout their time in school. We produce a report half way through the year, on your child's learning and progression, in order to allow discussion and build on successes so far, whilst addressing particular needs. Parent consultations, twice yearly, will give you the opportunity to see how well your child is doing in school and the progress they are making. We hold open mornings and afternoons, which also give you the opportunity to look at your child's work and discuss any concerns with the class teacher. We have an open door policy and all teachers are happy to make time to talk to you about your child at a time convenient to you both.

13. How we know how good our SEN provision is

How you evaluate the effectiveness of provision for pupils with SEN

All pupils in our school are monitored and tracked on a progression system, where pupils making less than average progress are discussed and supported to overcome any barriers to their learning. Each Teacher produces 'Spot Light' action plans to address the needs of learners not making sufficient progress or who are behind on attainment. However, we understand that academic progress is often only a small indicator of some pupils' successes in school. We, therefore, also regularly consider pupils' emotional wellbeing, friendship and communication skills and sensory needs, amongst others. We then target these needs through a variety of support packages.

14. If you wish to complain

How you handle complaints about SEN provision

Initial concerns should be raised with your child's class teacher. If you are still concerned after this step you can contact Mrs Emma Allen our SENDICO. You can do this informally in Class 3 before or after school or if you check with the office she usually stays on site during her PPA feel free to pop in and talk through any concerns! Alternatively an appointment can be made for a mutually agreeable time to meet. This option is also available for Mrs Cassie Pamplin, Head Teacher. At this stage, if you are still concerned about the provision then the Governing body can be contacted through private and confidential mail to the Chair of Governors.

Cornwall's Local Offer can be found on The Cornwall Family Information Services (FIS) website:

Answers to Frequently asked Questions

1. How do people in school know if a pupil needs extra help?

Teachers monitor children's progress in all areas of learning carefully and refer any child they have concerns about to appropriate targeted groups. This is monitored carefully by the Teacher, SENDICO and Head Teacher. Pupils have end of year targets and progress towards these targets is analysed every half term. Pupils who continue to raise concerns about progression will be referred back to the Head Teacher and SENDICO for continued analysis and further targeted support. Pupils with specific needs who receive support from outside agencies, such as Speech and Language Therapy, will have additional targets based on their need. These targets are shared with the class teacher and then written onto an Individual Education Plan which is monitored regularly by the Class teaching teams and termly by the SENDICO.

2. What should I do if I think my child may have special educational needs?

Your initial concern should be raised with your child's class teacher. If you remain concerned please contact Mrs Allen, SENDICO, or Mrs

Cassie Pamplin, Head Teacher, at the school.

3. How is the curriculum matched to my child's needs?

We use a broad and balanced curriculum which is cross curricular and involves lots of practical activities. Teachers plan effectively to meet all children's needs through appropriately differentiated activities and cater for a range of learning styles.

4. How do school staff support me/my child?

Support staff in school work in a variety of ways, but always under the direction of a qualified teacher. The school office is the information centre of the school and is always a good place to go if you require further information about the day to day occurrences around the school. Class based teaching assistants are there to provide support to teachers and children alike and often become a point of contact in the classroom for parents. Some support staff deliver elements of the curriculum alongside other teaching colleagues. Throughout school support staff deliver intervention groups to help pupils feel confident in a variety of areas across the curriculum. Our Thrive practitioner works alongside the Head Teacher to support pupils with a range of needs.

5. How will I, and my child, know how well they are doing?

We produce a report half way through the year, on your child's learning and progression, in order to allow discussion and build on successes so far, whilst addressing particular needs. Parent consultations, twice yearly, will give you the opportunity to see how well your child is doing in school and the progress they are making. In class teachers and support staff regularly share targets with all pupils, encouraging them to actively work towards achieving each next step. In some cases pupils needs require the use of Individual Education Plans which are written in conjunction with the parents and child. These are then used vigorously in class to keep the focus on particular pupils individual next steps in learning.

6. How can you help me to support my child's learning?

As a school we run information evenings to help parents understand the way we currently deliver aspects of the curriculum, i.e. Maths evenings. We offer in school training sessions for parents when it is clear there is a demand for such i.e. ICT courses. Teachers prepare class information booklets which provide parents with information about upcoming learning and homework expectations etc. We also provide Mathematics booklets that explain how we teach calculations in this subject.

7. What support is there for my child's overall wellbeing?

As a whole staff we take the children's overall wellbeing very seriously. All staff spend a considerable time talking to children when things go wrong, both to unpick the immediate problem but also to look for solutions for the next time something similar arises. The school counsellor works with individual and small groups of children to strengthen their self-esteem. Currently outdoor learning is being used successfully in this area. Parents and children are asked to take part in surveys each year and we use the results to help monitor the successes of the school and as a starting point for any changes that might need to be made. Throughout the school children take part in R-Time activities, which are linked to 'Rusty Bear' and our 'Rules for life' which teach children how to act with thought and care.

8. How do I know that my child is safe in school?

The school gates are always shut during the school day allowing children freedom around the school grounds whilst keeping them safe. Registers are taken at the beginning of each session to ensure all children are present and teachers are aware of where children are at all times. Members of the public are required to sign in through reception before entering the main school building. We take all incidents between children seriously in school and make sure a resolution is found.

9. How is my child included in activities outside the classroom including school trips?

All children are given the opportunity to attend extra-curricular activities and school trips, regardless of need or ability. Children will usually be supported on school trips as they would be within the classroom (although this is not always the best option, depending on the activity and particular need) and risk assessments will be completed prior to the trip.

10. How accessible is the school environment?

We have endeavoured to make our school as fully accessible as possible, in line with County Council, for children, young people and adults with physical difficulties. We have an easy access parking space in the car park, wheelchair access and have a facility for an accessible toilet.

11. How will school prepare and support me/my child through the transition from key stage to key stage and beyond?

Transition times are handled very carefully, especially for children with SEND. Prior to entry into the setting the reception class teacher visits linked, early provision, settings and does a home visit to each family. We then hold learning together sessions for new pupils and parents in the school for several weeks. Where a child has SEND the school endeavours to involve key staff members at this time. During their time in school relevant information is passed onto the next teacher, both verbally and in written formats. Individual Education Plans are transferred to the next class and SEND information is made available early to enable the next teacher to prepare and plan effectively. When appropriate, teaching assistants may work with children to create a transition book, full of photos and information about their new class and teachers. In Year 5 and 6 transition activities are arranged with local secondary schools. Children with SEND are fully supported in these activities, as in school. Where it is deemed necessary by the school or parents, early communication with secondary settings allows for extra transition visits to be arranged.

12. How are the school's resources allocated and matched to pupils' special educational needs?

Regular meetings take place regarding the progress and attainment of all pupils. Those pupils who are making insufficient progress are supported in a variety of ways and their progress is closely monitored by the Head Teacher, SENDICO and class teacher. Support staff and other resources are used across the school and are subject to change, should the need arise.

13. How is the decision made about what type and how much support each pupil receives?

Decisions about how resources are used throughout the school are taken by the senior management team and are dependent upon a variety of factors. Resources are usually preferred when they can be used by a variety of children rather than just singling individuals out. Often a simple classroom change in practice is beneficial to all – i.e. whole class visual timetable rather than individual ones. This is also true of the important resource of support staff in classrooms, where the goal must be developing learner independence alongside access to the curriculum. ICT resources are available in all classes, as well as a more extensive central resources base.

14. Who is responsible for the progress and success of my child in school?

We believe that children make the best progress when all parties work together and communicate effectively. We value parents as partners in children's learning and success. We also encourage children to understand and take responsibility for their part in the learning process. If a teacher has concerns about your child's progress they will address this with you either face to face or over the phone alternatively, if you have any concerns, do not hesitate to raise them with the school.

15. Who can I contact for further information?
